The Lord's Parable for His children in the 22nd and the 23rd Communities

And now, my beloved children of the 22nd and 23rd community, I would teach you with a parable. It is a message of infinite blessing and hope.

There was a tender and loving father. And he gathered his beloved children around him. And he spoke to them with serious words. And he told them that he had gathered them together to instruct them because they were to set out on an important journey.

And he said, "I have carefully prepared the way before you as you go on your journey. And I have arranged for you to stop to visit four of my holy prophets in their houses. And each one will give you instructions to help you on your way. And the prophet you will come to first will be the one to have prophesied the most recently. And as you go, you will move back in time until the last one will be the first to prophesy.

The first prophet whose home you will visit will be John the Revelator. And he will teach you to know of both the wicked and the righteous and their behavior. And John will speak to you and say, 'The Lord would instruct you so that during the dark portions of your journey you will not lose your way. Because you may miss out on coming to the aid of Anokeesed. And my people will be called upon to immediately put to use the effects of the truth in their lives so they can move out across the earth, going forward consuming all the moments of darkness by loving the lost with heavenly compassion in vital service. And to do this, they must have kept their eyes on the light of the brilliant stone before their eyes all during their trials and hardships. And if you keep your eyes on the light of Shabuwa during your dark places, your children will be raised up without injury and they will be prepared to behold the gates of Eden'. And now my children, remember to keep all his sayings to you as you go.

And as you travel upon your way, I have arranged for you to visit the second prophet to receive instructions for your journey. And you will sit in the house of Ezekiel. And he will inform you that you will travel through the valley of the shadows of evil. But be not dismayed, but bring with you the vision of the light you have seen. And listen and heed his words with care because he will love you with much tenderness of heart to prepare by informing you of the exact pathway to safely find your way. The light will illuminate the pathway. And it will be the pathway of true Israel.

And from his home, you will travel on, following your bright path, until you come to visit in the house of Jeremiah. And he will speak profound words to you and speak and say, 'Be comforted for I am with you, saith the Lord, to save thee. For although I make a full end of all nations whither I have scattered you, yet will I not make a full end of you. But I will correct you in measure and will not leave you altogether unpunished. And your diligent repentance will lift you up and make you strong and excellent in your service to Anokeesed.'

And in the midst of your most pressing times, you will arrive at the house of Isaiah. And there you will find the fullness of your comfort and hope to carry you through to the end of your journey. And at last, he will open up before your eyes the full meaning of the precious light that you have been gazing upon. And he will say, 'Before she travailed, she brought forth. Before her pain came, she was delivered of a man child. Who has ever heard of such a thing? Who has ever seen such things? Shall the earth be made to bring forth in one day? Or shall a nation be born all at once? For as soon as Zion travailed, she brought forth her children. Shall I bring to the birth and not cause to bring forth? saith the Lord. Shall I cause to bring forth and shut the womb? saith thy God. As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you. And you shall be comforted in Jerusalem. And you will find, my children, that your holy nation will emerge all over the earth right before the eyes of your conquered enemies. And when I make a full end of all nations, the light of Israel shall shine to cover the earth.'

And upon the words of these four prophets who have opened up to you a bright and shining star, you shall hang all your personal visions and your vision as a holy nation. And now by these words, you are come back to lay hold to your beginnings in true Israel."

Amen.
